Tapestry wins another award

“Medicine for the Weak” by Leah Block, published in the winter 2015 issue of LWML–Canada’s magazine, Tapestry, took home third prize in the First Person/ Personal Account category of the annual Canadian Church Press Awards this past weekend. The judge noted it is “a thoughtful and perceptive examination of the nature of Holy Communion; the idea behind the sacraments as medicine and as healing.” The judge went on to say, “The author displays a nice sense of mixing faith and medicine which has great potential for even more powerful writing.”

Canadian Church Press brings together many publications from a broad range of Christian denominations in Canada. Almost all other publications have paid staff. We are proud of the work of our volunteers, from writers to editors to graphic designers.

Leah is a medical doctor and the wife of Lutheran Church–Canada’s director of communications, Mathew Block. Readers of Tapestry look forward to more of her writing.

Spice up your meetings

Are you being exiled? If you were, would you know it?

An exile is a journey that takes you from one place to another; sometimes willingly, sometimes not.

This month we study Psalm 147. The Program Planner provides you with a devotion based on Psalm 147, as well as a mite litany and suggestions for song and prayer.

All you need for the spiritual growth at your May meeting can be found at <http://www.lutheranwomen.ca/wp-content/uploads/2015/11/Spice-Meetings-Psalm-147.pdf>

Enjoy your spring and all that our Good Lord blesses us with in the season of new birth!
